Handout 1A: Quotations by Barnard and Confucius

Directions: Silently reread the quotations below:

“It is infinitely better to transplant a heart than to bury it to be devoured by worms.”

–Christiaan Barnard, the first cardiovascular surgeon to transplant a human heart

“Wherever you go, go with all your heart.”

–Confucius, a Chinese philosopher

Directions: Annotate the two quotations in the following ways:

- Mark ? for questions.
- Circle unknown words.
- Write observations in the margins.
- Write an F or L to show whether the speaker is using the word heart figuratively or literally.
